

NOW HIRING:

INTEGRATED PRIMARY PREVENTION SPECIALIST (TITLE 5)

SUMMARY: The Vermont National Guard is hiring one (1) GS-12 Integrated Primary Prevention (IPP) Lead for our newly established prevention team. The position will be primarily located at Joint Forces Headquarters in Colchester, Vermont. This is a civilian position and does NOT require membership in the National Guard. It is open to all US citizens, subject to background/security investigation.

Based on the Office of the Secretary of Defense's Independent Review Commission in 2021, the Department of Defense launched a new Integrated Primary Prevention Program designed to assess, analyze, target, and evaluate the prevalence of risk and protective factors associated with self-harm, sexual violence, domestic violence, and workplace violence.

To build our prevention team, the Vermont National Guard is seeking individuals with extensive experience designing, delivering, and evaluating evidenced based primary prevention activities.

Core Competencies and Responsibilities: The successful implementation of the Prevention Workforce requires a set of core competencies in hiring personnel. The Prevention Lead will:

- Demonstrate a deep understanding of prevention science and ability to implement strategies to reduce incidents of violence/self-harm or mitigate the impact when such incidents occur;
- Explain the public health approach to prevention and how to apply it in a National Guard context;
- Capture, assess, interpret, use, and present data related to violence/self-harm;
- Establish collaborative relationships with leaders, prevention stakeholders, prevention experts, and military and civilian community-based resources.

Primary Prevention Leads serve as subject matter experts in prevention of interpersonal violence including Family Violence/Abuse, Self-Directed Harm and Suicide, Sexual Assault and Harassment, and Workplace Violence and Harassment. They establish objectives and procedures to advance policy, programs, and practices associated with primary prevention to avert harm before it occurs.

Prevention Leads will: assist with needs assessments through collection and analysis of qualitative and quantitative data; evaluate, analyze, and recommend changes to surveys and trainings; utilize multi-faceted outcome data and metrics to inform the organizational Comprehensive Integrated Primary Prevention Plan; collaborate effectively with prevention stakeholders, internal and external to the organization; participate in committees, boards, or working groups as required; facilitate meetings and working groups associated with primary prevention activities; utilize the public health approach and evidence-based prevention processes to reduce risk factors and promote protective factors at the organizational level; advocate prevention messaging throughout the organization; advise leaders at all levels of best practices and evidence-based programs, policies, and plans to increase prevention readiness within their organizations; provide leaders with data-informed courses of action to appropriately resource prevention activities; communicate the complexities of prevention issues to stakeholders and senior leaders; educate leaders on primary prevention and create buy-in; brief senior leadership on IPP activities and outcomes; coordinate and execute strategies and plans to implement prevention activities.

The VTNG Integrated Primary Prevention Workforce consists of one Prevention Manager (GS-13), two Prevention Leads (GS-12), and three Prevention Specialists (GS-11).
